PR No

01/09

This week 24hr-security.com is pleased to announce that Tage and Daniel will both be trained via a traineeship program.

Mark Deaville is the manager of 24hr-security.com and has been an active trainer and lecturer for electronic security for over the past 4 years. He also holds a qualification in certificate IV of Training and Assessment.

He Says,

“The security industry needs to keep training and educating our new technicians and cablers. By keeping a proactive approach we can help secure a future for many young prospects who want to enter the industry. This industry has many programs that can help young technicians, all we need is employers actively seeking education for security and telecommunications.

We are please that we are in a position to offer 2 traineeships. What we aim to achieve from this is a constant stream of new technicians we can train each year.” ENDS
